GREY GHOST WILL BE PERFORMER ON STATE FAIR RACE COURSE

One of Few Grey Thoroughbreds in the World is "The Shrimp" a Star Performer

COLOR EXCEPTIONAL IN GALLOPING RACERS

Nine More Running Horses Expected Tomorrow from the Juarez Track Completing Big List.

(By CHECKERS.)

Lovers of the thoroughbred will have an opportunity at the state fair next week to see one of the very few grey running horses in the United States race a barrier. The grey ghost is "The Shrimp," one of the fastest sprinters on the bush circuits this summer and fall. He is now at the race course with the other runners that have been campaigned in Colorado during past weeks.

There are comparatively few grey thoroughbreds ever foaled. Some of the fastest trotters and pacers in the country are grey, but this color is almost unknown in the breeding of the running horse. Last year at the Juarez race course there were not three grey runners out of the 500 or more horses quartered at the famous Mexican oval. The Shrimp was one of these. The other two were Kitty Stanfield and Oakland. They were all three returned winners at Juarez, each annexing one victory out of a number of starts. The Shrimp was in the money, however, more times than the others.

The majority of thoroughbreds are bays, sorrels, blacks and browns. The color sorrel is known as bay among the running horse people, but is referred to as sorrel color by the harness horse men.

Secretary Wiley announced today that the nine thoroughbreds from Juarez would likely arrive tomorrow. When this string arrives here there will be some of the best selling players in the country quartered at the fair grounds. These horses will nearly all start at Phoenix during the fair there and will then be taken to be campaigned this winter.

Dr. Snoot, the well known local runner that won a number of events over the Colorado circuit this season is now in training at the local course. He will be entered in the sprint.

Among the harness horse delegation that are quartered here include the stables of Theodore Corrick, John Green and others. Mr. Corrick has his green pacer Red King in training. He is entered in all the local classes for sidewheeler. Mr. Green has his two trotters, Cuckoo and Ritzkie Baron. The latter holds the track record for the fastest heat ever trotted over the local twice around.

TRANSYLVANIA STAKE CHIEF EVENT TODAY ON LEXINGTON PROGRAM

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 7.—The Transylvania stake for 2½ mile trotters at the Grand Circuit meeting here today was won by Peter Scott. Worth Prince was second and Lizzie Brown third. Best time, 2:03½.

Napoleon Direct won the unfinished Tennessee stake for free-for-all pacers at the Grand Circuit meeting here today, placing the fifth heat in 2:01½, establishing a new world's record for the fifth heat of a pacing race.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 7.—The trotting of the classic Transylvania stake attracted chief attention at today's grand circuit meeting.

Another attraction is the racing for three year olds. The other events on the card were the Tennessee free for all pace and 2½ mile class pace, both of which were unfinished yesterday and a 2:07 class trot and 2:12 class pace.

PHILLIES START ON FINAL PRACTICE IN TEETH OF NORTHWIND

Hard Conditions Face World Series Contenders in Brief Time for Preparation for the Battle.

BOSTON PLAYS LAST SCHEDULE GAME TODAY

Red Sox will Reach Philadelphia Tonight, with Practically no Chance at all for a Field Try Out.

(By Evening Herald Staff Writer.)
Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—Intermittent showers which fell today slowed up the final workout of the Philadelphia National league pennant winners in preparation for the world's baseball championship battle which begins here tomorrow. All the players were here tomorrow. All the players were here tomorrow. All the players were here tomorrow.

According to the weather bureau, it is raining at all times and it will be only light showers that should not prevent the first game from being played. Indications are, the bureau stated, that the present cloudiness will continue without much change in temperature.

The distribution of tickets began today both at uptown and downtown offices of the Philadelphia club. All persons who had applied for tickets by mail and whose requests were granted were notified by mail to present themselves at the offices. Speculators hovered about the offices and when the police were not looking, offered advance prices for the season's seats held by the lucky applicants. They met with little success.

Netting on the series today was largely at even money on the result of the series with Philadelphia money holding out in many cases for odds.

PHILLIES FORCED TO WORK IN SWEATERS

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—The weather early today was cloudy and the northeast wind made the air raw, which compelled the Phillies to start their practice wearing sweaters. Despite the unfavorable weather and the soggy ground from recent rains, Manager Moran played morning and afternoon practice for all the players. Many tips have come to Moran on the style of play of the Boston Red Sox and part of the time today was spent in practicing defensive plays with men on the bases.

The question whether Bill Killefer will get into the series was still in doubt today, that is, as far as the general public was concerned. His lame arm was again examined by a New York expert yesterday.

The Boston Red Sox, who end the American league season in New York today, will arrive here late tonight and will in consequence have little time for final practice. The team, however, is reported in good condition with little need for further preparation.

Manager Moran has invited Manager Carrigan to use the Phillies' playing field when he wants to.

TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND SEATS SOLD AT BOSTON

Boston, Oct. 7.—Thousands of persons learned today that they had been successful in their application for grand stand or pavilion reservations for the world series baseball games to be played at the Braves' field beginning next Monday. President Joseph J. Lannin, of the Boston Americans, and an augmented office staff put the last of the notices of reservations in the postoffice today. There were about 15,000 covering 25,000 seats for each of the three games.

The movement of the Red Sox supporters to Philadelphia began today. New York morning trains carried crowded cars. The "royal rosters" numbering 165, had chartered a special train. Accompanying them were a band and twenty dancers, who will entertain the Red Sox on the foreign field with the strains of "Tea, Tea, Tea," the world series song. They carried a banner inscribed "we have yet to follow a loser; Red Sox world champions for 1916."

EVERYTHING READY FOR THE BIGGEST FOOTBALL GAME ON MONDAY

For First Time in State's History Full Student Membership of Opposing Schools will Root for Their Teams

UNIVERSITY TEAM IS UNKNOWN QUANTITY

Coach Hutchinson's Policy of Silent Persistence However Gives Confidence in Ability to Beat Cadets.

School and college athletes all over the state are watching with liveliest interest the result of the foot ball game here Monday afternoon, October 11, between the New Mexico Military academy and the University of New Mexico. It will be the first important game of the season in New Mexico, and it probably will be witnessed by the largest crowd that ever attended a foot ball game in the state, since it will be played on the fair grounds field the opening day of the state fair. The entire cadet corps of the state military school will be here to root for its team while the university, with a student body just 100 per cent larger than in any previous year, will be on the ground to the last student, trained to the limit in the gentle art of whooping it up.

No one appears to have any very accurate line on the relative merits of the two teams, but information is that the cadets are somewhat heavier in the line than the university team, and that if anything their early practice indicates faster team play and cohesion. Coach Hutchinson of the university, however, says his team will win. "Hutch" says it quietly and with a conservative, but with apparent confidence. The university coach for the first time has a majority of his last year's team back in the game this fall. Also he has had the pick of a likely looking freshman squad of nearly sixty youngsters, a majority of whom have had some athletic training in high school, and a few who have made creditable records on the gridiron. As a result the coach had the best working squad since he came to New Mexico four years ago. Hutchinson spent all summer with old friends and former associates on the coaching line of Princeton and Yale. He has brought back with him some advanced ideas about foot ball drill and has been putting these ideas into his men at a furious rate.

It is really the first time the university coach has attempted to develop a winning team. It is as a matter of fact the first time he has ever had team material to justify him in the effort. Hutchinson is realizing this year on the university policy of required physical instruction, inaugurated when President Boyd took charge of the institution. Every student who enters the state university now must take the course in physical education, whether he or she wants to do so or not. Unless the student is a cripple there is no excuse, and even cripples have special courses made for them. Hutchinson's title is not "coach," but instructor in physical education, and he works at it like a whirlwind.

When the student enters the university now he or she is subjected to a thorough physical examination, the women by Dr. Evelyn Frieble, president of the State Medical society, and the men by Mr. Hutchinson. Careful chart records are made with a view to determining the student's weakest points. From the vision to the reactivity of the great toe nothing is overlooked and when the measurements and charts have been completed each is made the subject of painstaking scrutiny to determine on that particular student's weak points.

The result is this physical education policy has been a marked improvement not only in the physical tone of the university student body, but it is believed in better mental tone and improved study results in class and lecture room. Both men and women are kept physically fit and while the result up to this time has been a general physical development of the whole student body, instead of developing individual or team prowess at the expense of the mass of the students, it has brought up to Coach Hutchinson this year material in for foot ball that in his freshman year would have been a foot ball joke, not to say a menace. It may be, therefore, that Hutchinson has more than the weight of his men to justify his confidence that his team will win the big game here Monday.

It promises to be a rooting contest without an equal in the history of the state, for the iron lungs of the Roosevelt cadet corps are famous, and the cadets have absolute confidence in the winning power of their team, while the university students, men and women, have been looking forward cheerfully for weeks in preparation for the occasion.

WEINMAN'S ILLNESS NOT CONSIDERED SERIOUS

J. A. Weinman, proprietor of the Golden Rule Dry Goods company, is confined to his home at 603 West Copper avenue with an attack of pneumonia. His physicians stated this afternoon that his condition is not regarded as being critical.

IDEAL WEATHER FOR OPENING OF THE GAME SEASON

Duck Season Open and Quail Shooting Soon will be Permitted. Protection Proves its Value to Sportsmen.

With ideal weather conditions prevailing and the highways and byways in good condition, scores of local sportsmen are flocking to the mountains and country these beautiful days with dogs and guns to take advantage of the "open season" in New Mexico. Game is reported very plentiful this year, both big and small game and same birds. The dove season in this state was concluded October 1 and during the season many thousands of these little feathered creatures have been slaughtered. But they will now be protected by the game laws.

Strict game laws in New Mexico have protected game of nearly every species, and today this state is the hunters' paradise. Hunters from nearly every section of the east come here in the fall and winter to stalk bear, deer, lion and other big game that abounds in the virgin forests of the Rocky state.

The quail season opens in this state October 25 and quail are reported very plentiful throughout the country. The winter was not a hard one on them and hunters who shoot game for the sport of it were instrumental in placing large quantities of quail on the snows for the birds during the worst part of the last winter. This spring they have been rapidly shot and the quail has become a necessary asset to the farmer—that is, they still in seeds ready to garden stuff, and for this reason many farmers will make an effort to prevent hunters from shooting the birds on their farms or ranches.

The duck season was rung in the first of the month and continues until January 15. Ducks are very plentiful on the lakes at the back door of Albuquerque and many local hunters and tourists in the city are enjoying the sport of shooting them on the wing.

The turkey season opens here October 25, the same day as the deer season. Three birds a day is the limit allowed in this state for any one hunter to kill.

The local ammunition stores and sporting goods factories report an increased sale in game ammunition and other sportsmen's goods with the approach of the open season.
